5 moon magic

Why does the moon look so big on the horizon?

Which of these is true?

A) The atmosphere acts as a powerful natural telephoto lens focusing a large image of the moon.

B) It doesn't magnify! You expect objects on the horizon to look smaller, but when the moon appears the SAME SIZE, it's bigger than expected.

C) The moon's path is elliptical. Therefore, the widely different distances make the moon appear bigger or smaller because it's actually much closer or farther.
